Sky High Adventure Park

Sky High Aerial Adventure Park, located at Holiday Valley Resort, has an Adventure Park, a Mountain Coaster, a Gem Mining area, and a Climbing Forest!

The Aerial Adventure Park is a treetop playground with platforms and bridges designed to test your strength, strategy, and balance. With 13 courses of varying difficulty, you'll cross bridges, climb ladders, and zip line to the next platform.

The Sky Flyer Mountain Coaster, similar to a roller coaster but built on a mountain, is a 2,940-foot thrill ride with 15 curves, 12 waves, a jump, and a corkscrew spiral. Riders can control the speed for a high-speed adventure or a leisurely ride.

At the Mister Happy Gem Mining area kids pan for gems, fossils, and sharks' teeth from a 3-pound sand bag. Dump the sand into a frame and wash it away to uncover treasures!

The Climbing Forest, designed for climbers as young as 5 years old, features 9 trees with color-coded climbing holds, offering challenges from easy to difficult. Climbers are safely harnessed into an Auto Belay system.

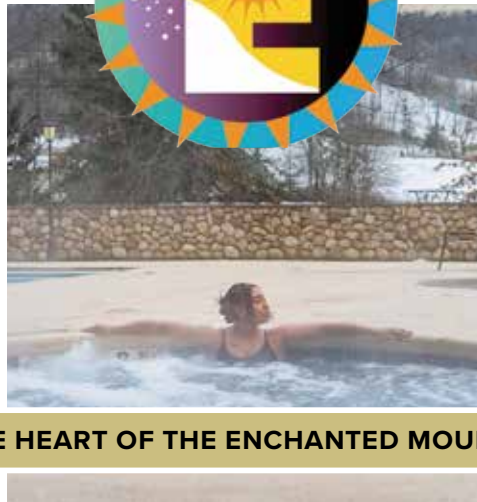

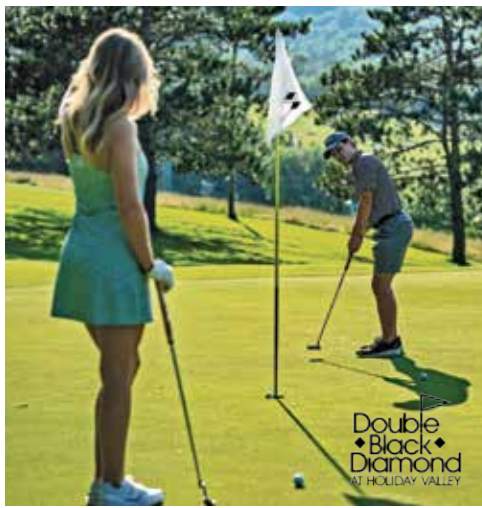

Open May through October, but because they're weather dependent, we encourage you to call first, 716-699-HIGH, or check online at HolidayValley.com/Sky-High.

Paddle the Allegheny River

The Allegheny River flows through the Enchanted Mountains and has so much beauty to offer. It is not uncommon to see deer, bear, or even a bald eagle soaring overhead.

Our Paddle The Allegheny River Rack Card lists the launch points that flow along the Allegheny River from Portville to the Allegheny Reservoir, including distances!

Some of the boat launches are handicap accessible. When waters are at sufficient levels, kayakers can paddle on approximately 50 miles of river.

Float Down Some Cool Calming Waters

Explore the coastlines of the lakes, creeks, and rivers from a completely new point of view, admiring the breathtaking scenery of the Enchanted Mountains.

Kayaking and canoeing are one of our biggest attractions, due to the abundance of waterways to choose from.

Cattaraugus Creek is a great place to enjoy a scenic trip. However, it must be approached with caution as sections are very challenging. This includes sections that can be secluded or contain drops and dangerous recirculating currents. Go with an expert or someone who is familiar with the layout, like the Zoar Valley Paddling Club. Look for them on Facebook.

Other waterways frequented by paddlers include Conewango Creek, Great Valley Creek, Ischua Creek, Oil Creek, and Olean Creek. Quaker Lake and Red House Lake in Allegany State Park remain a favorite of visitors as well.

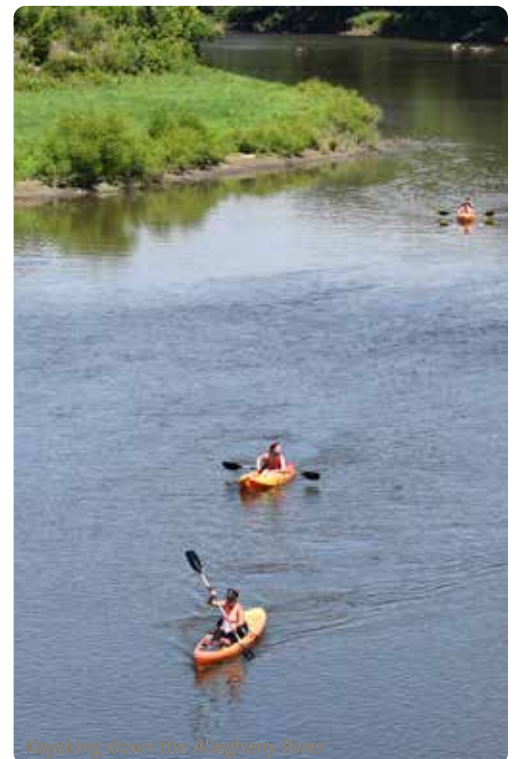

Detailed information on the conditions or obstacles can be found at EMFun.us/Paddle.

African American Culture

The African American Center for Cultural Development (AACCD) values, promotes, and integrates the history of our area by celebrating the talents, lives, and history of African Americans in the region. Through various events, movie screenings, lectures, and other observances, the AACCD seeks to benefit the area and increase community pride.

A Walking Tour of African American History in Olean can be taken either as a self-journey or guided tour and is just over two miles long. On group tours, the guide will present some history of each site.

AACCD's Director, along with Cattaraugus County Historical Advisory Committee, created a brochure called, "The Underground Railroad in Cattaraugus County...A CountyWide Fight for Freedom" brochure which features people, places, societies and potential routes taken through the county.

European and other Cultures

Polish Americans have a long history in the City of Olean, traditionally in the north end and dating back to just before the 1900s. The Olean Pulaski Club was established in 1948 and remains to this day. The club holds true to its Polish roots most noticeably with its Dyngus Day Celebration.

St. John's Festival occurs each July and was formerly known as "Festa Italiana" in Olean and is sponsored by St. John the Evangelist Parish of Olean. Come be Italian for the day at this fun filled event. Discover more at SJTEOlean.org.

To honor and celebrate Lebanese heritage, St. Joseph's Mahrajan Festival is held in the beginning of August each year and invites the community in to dine on traditional Lebanese foods. The word "Mahrajan" loosely translated, means picnic or family get-together. Details can be found at StJosephOlean.org.

The Hindu Society of Olean and Allegany is a small community in Western New York with a mission to increase spiritual and cultural awareness through Hindu religious traditions. Every other year they host India Fest, typically held at the JCC Campus, where they have traditional food, beverages, and entertainment.

Amish Trail

IMMERSE YOURSELF IN A SIMPLER WAY OF LIFE

When you travel through the New York Amish Trail, you will find unique handiworks and observe Amish culture - a culture so far from the modern world. New York's Amish Trail in Cattaraugus County is not your typical Amish community; this pastoral settlement consists of an Old Order Amish people that continue to live out their day to day lives the old-fashioned way.

This is a place where you can take a step back in time, slow down, and enjoy a simpler way of life. Follow hand-painted signs down the side roads to the Amish businesses where you can purchase a wide variety of goods, each made with incomparable hand craftsmanship. No modern conveniences such as electric and motorized vehicles are used to carry out their responsibilities for the day.

Amish 101

Please remember to respect the privacy and personal property of our Amish neighbors. They do not like to be photographed as it is against their beliefs. Photos of the scenic countryside can be taken. As you tour the enchanted countryside, drive cautiously and watch for black, slow-moving, horse-drawn buggies.

Leave your debit and credit cards at home as they only accept cash. Shops are closed on Sundays, some Wednesdays, and certain holidays.

Seneca Nation of Indians

ONÖNDOWA'GA:' GREAT HILL PEOPLE
KEEPERS OF THE WESTERN DOOR

The Seneca Nation has a rich and full history with a culture that everyone can experience today. The vibrancy of this rich heritage is evident in the cultural events, dance, music, arts, crafts, and foods that visitors are invited to experience. Highlights include the Main Street Mural overlooking the Allegheny River, Native American Arts, the Marvin “Joe” Curry Veterans PowWow, Seneca Gaming and Entertainment, Seneca Nation Library, Highbanks Campground, SnowSnake, lacrosse games, and the Onöhsagwë:dé Cultural Center which has been awarded the Tribal Destination of the Year.

The Seneca Nation has over 8,500 enrolled members and holds title to five territories in Western New York, specifically, the Allegheny, Buffalo Creek, Cattaraugus, Niagara Falls, and Oil Spring territories. The Seneca Nation is one of the original Five Nations of the Hodinöhsyöñih, or Iroquois Confederacy. This union was created to bring peace to the Hodinöhsyöñih, also known as the “People of the Longhouse.” Comprised of Chiefs from the Seneca, Cayuga, Onondaga, Oneida, and Mohawk, it operated under a sophisticated oral tradition. This code of conduct is known as the Great Law of Peace. The union was later expanded to include the Tuscarora, becoming the Six Nations of the Iroquois Confederacy.

The Hodinöhsyöñih nations’ contiguous lands originally stretched across what is now New York State, similar to the shape of a longhouse. The Seneca controlled trade and traffic at the western edge of the Iroquois territory, which is why they are referred to as “Keepers of the Western Door.”

Like other Iroquois nations, the Seneca people historically lived in longhouses, which were long, narrow bark-covered dwellings that housed several families. The Seneca are known as Onöndowa’ga:, (pronounced: Oh-n’own-dough-wahgah) or “Great Hill People.” Traditional Seneca culture is defined by the clan system. There are eight clans among the Seneca: Bear, Beaver, Turtle, Wolf, Deer, Hawk, Heron, and Snipe. Clan membership is matrilineal – it is passed on to children through their mothers. The Seneca are a matriarchal society that has participated in what is accepted as the first modern democracy in the Western hemisphere since 1100 A.D.

The Seneca would hunt, fish, farm, and forage their food. Staples of the Seneca crop and diet were corn, beans, and squash, which are referred to as “Jöhehgöh,” the Three Sisters—considered to be special gifts from the Creator. Every aspect of the Seneca’s daily life came from the land or nature, including clothing, tools, cooking utensils, crafts and other materials.

The Nation continues to live in and care for the forests, valleys, and shorelines of Western New York which has been a prominent tradition since before reported history. The Creator’s gifts from the land and waters are revered among the Seneca, as it is their obligation to pass along this legacy to future generations.

Part of sharing our natural resources, The Seneca Nation operate Highbanks Campground, located directly on the Allegheny Reservoir, overlooking the scenic view of the region’s rolling hills. Enjoy the comforts of cabins and chalets, relax in your RV, or pitch a tent to sleep under the stars. Tent and recreational vehicle sites have picnic tables and fire pits to relax in front of, complete with water and electrical hookups. Highbanks is open year round and is fun for the entire family!

Tips for visiting Seneca Territory

Your general guide should be to exercise common courtesy.

Please respect all rules, road signs, traffic signs, and do not litter. Please stay out of private or restricted areas. They take pride in protecting our Mother Earth, families, and elders.

When visiting sacred sites or grounds please respect the old structures, do not remove any artifacts, and be cautious of the landscaping and vegetation in the area as Nation and Federal law prohibit the removal or desecration of such items.

When attending powwows, socials, or ceremonial events, please honor the traditions and witness the event as a spectator. Please approach dancers and singers respectfully and ask for permission to take photos and/or video.

For more information on the Seneca Nation of Indians, please visit SNI.org.

The Marvin “Joe” Curry Veterans Powwow is an annual event. The Powwow showcases Native American dances from across Indian Country while focusing on the Smoke Dance of the Iroquois and honoring Native American Veterans. This event is the perfect opportunity to experience the beauty of the First Nations through song, dance, art and traditional foods. Find out more at SenecaPowWow.org and like their page on Facebook!

THE HOME OF THE SENECA-IROQUOIS NATIONAL MUSEUM

The Onöhsagwë:dé Cultural Center in Salamanca, is truly a place you need to experience. The impressive facility houses the Seneca-Iroquois National Museum, and has components of an educational facility, living culture elements, and performance spaces.

The Cultural Center is named after Richard “Onöhsagwë:dé” Johnny-John. “Onöhsagwë:dé” means “an opening in the house.” He spent his whole life on the Allegany Territory, dedicating many years to preserving Seneca history and culture by becoming a bilingual specialist for the Seneca Nation.

The Cultural Center brings ample space and the technology needed to bring some of the Seneca artifacts home and properly care for them.

95% of Seneca artifacts have never been on display due to their delicate nature.

A classroom is available for groups and educational tours. Students can be guided through the museum and then come back to the classroom for more educational videos and lectures and a chance to ask Cultural Specialists specific questions they may have.

The interactive and informational exhibits tell the history of the Seneca, from The Creation Story to present day. Other exhibits include a welcoming “Gustoweh,” The Clan System, a log cabin that visitors can walk through, Seneca Women, Arts and Sports, The Kinzua Dam Project. While there are opportunities to touch or listen to certain components of these exhibits, tours are also available and highly recommended.

There is an amphitheater in the back of the building to host events.
